Our Local Fishermen Have Varied Luck

Although the weather last week end was anything but pleasant the local fishermen turned out in force and hied to their favorite fishing haunts. Charlie Mortimer and Ross Ford started on Friday evening so as to get there in time. We are told that they hiked about 15 miles but the fish didn't like their bait and they returned empty handed.

Tommy Johnson claims he caught the first fish and Jim Kirby claims the second but it took Hugh Lee to land the big ones. Hugh caught a 31 inch pike weighing five and a quarter pounds and a trout that tipped the scales at 2 lbs. 6 oz.

Jim McGhee had good success with grayling and claimed a dozen. The big hole on the Fallen Timber was a favorite spot and quite a few gathered there, but the fish were shy and they say that Clint Reiber got the only fish in the hole.

World's Record Claimed For Didsbury Jersey Cow

What is believed to be a record butterfat test for a cow of any age or breed is claimed by Norman S. Clarke, Didsbury for the three-year-old Jersey cow, Waikiki Numa's "Fanny" which in official R.O.P. test for the past six days showed a test of 9.8 per cent.

This high producing cow is one of the choice animals purchased last year by Norman Clarke in the state of Washington and added to his herd at Didsbury. The butterfat content of the milk, which is exceptionally high for even a cow of this breed, is certified by F. King of the Dominion government cow-testing staff.

At this rate, the Clarke cow, in her average flow of two gallons of milk per day, produces sufficient fat to make approximately 2 and a half pounds of butter.

The outing for these children was arranged and conducted by Rev. and Mrs. Ruppel in the interests of religious education and as a reward to those who have recently completed the required study and examinations in Church catechism. The visit to this exhibit of the Holy Land will no doubt add untold value and understanding to their present and future study of the scripture. At any rate they all came home most highly pleased about what they saw.

This model of the Holy Land covers 2251 square feet of floor space the location and architecture of 27 cities and villages. Also the main mountains, valleys, seas, rivers, trees and many other things all depicting some scene or incident in Palestine related to the life of Christ. About 800 figures of people and animals are seen moving in oriental style. The wonder of model cannot be imagined even though it took the proprietors eleven years to build it.

Farm Home Burns On Sunday Afternoon.

The farm home lately vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Steckley and now owned by Mr. W. Bishop was razed to the ground by fire last Sunday afternoon.

It is supposed that the sparks from a passing steam tractor was the cause of the fire. The various neighbors helped in saving the barn which was also in danger.

BASEBALL Roscbud League

DIDSBURY vs. INNISFAIR.

Didsbury won its opening league game on May 15th when Innisfail were trimmed 12-0.

Freeman started for the visitors, but eight hits, including three doubles in a row and a triple by Cook for eight runs in the second inning spelled disaster and Thompson took the loss. The home boys took kindly to his slants and Ruppel went to the rescue, but didn't do much better. Altogether the home team collected seventeen hits. "Scotty" Lee pitched a masterful game for the locals.

OLDS vs. DIDSBURY

On Friday evening at Olds, Didsbury were defeated 5-0, the league leaders playing a snapper brand of ball to win the game.

Bob Gooder and "Scotty" Lee twirled for Didsbury, but didn't receive the support our boys are capable of giving. Didsbury looks for revenge in the game here on Friday evening.

FOOTBALL.

The Roscbud Football League has again been organized and an invitation is extended to Didsbury to join the league. There are quite a number of soccer players in the district and an effort is being made to organize a club. If you are interested communicate with W. R. Harley at the Pioneer Office.

Census Enumeration Commences June 1st.

Census of the Dominion will be taken in June next. In announcing details of this great undertaking, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in a statement issued Friday night explained that the census has been called "the largest single act of administration of the government."

The human population, of course, will be the first consideration of the census takers but the census will also arrive at the number of horses, cattle, swine, poultry, thoroughbred animals, fish, fowls, fruit trees and hives of bees there are in the Dominion.

In ascertaining Canada's population—men, women and children—Mr. Citizen will be asked some 28 questions. He will be asked his name and place of abode. The person will be required to inform the census taker of his relationship to the head of the family, sex, single, married, widowed or divorced, age at last birthday.

Under the heading of nationality and racial origin, persons will be asked the country to which they owe allegiance and also their racial origin. They will be asked if they can speak English or French and if they speak any other language as a mother tongue.

Religion and two points as to education will be ascertained. There are 13 questions as to occupation, industry and unemployment which should give the country a very complete knowledge of this important condition among this population.

In regard to unemployment, full details will be required as to number of days employed in the past 12 months and the reason for loss of time.

The following enumerators have been appointed to take the census in this district:

Mr. E. Leclair, Township 31, Ranges 2 and 3.
Mr. Doras Wilson, Township 31, Ranges 1, 2S and 2O.
Mr. Chas. Rowell, Township 31, Ranges 4 and 5.
Mr. J. W. Phillipson, the town of Didsbury.

All the stores will be closed on Monday, April 25th (Empire Day) and will be open on Wednesday afternoon.

Developments In Transportation

It is obvious to even the most casual observer of current happenings that we live in an age of rapid changes and revolutionary developments. Hardly a year passes that does not reveal some new invention, or the application of some hitherto known force in an entirely new purpose. The world makes progress, and progress cannot and must not be stopped, but in this onward march there is always a lurking danger that we may be weakening, possibly destroying something which, in our own interests, we can ill afford to injure or destroy.

Does the general public, for example, fully realize the true meaning of the situation which has arisen in the realm of public transportation owing to the introduction and rapid increase in the use of motor buses for passengers and huge trucks for freight haulage upon our highways, and the effect which this development is having upon our railways? Without giving the matter much consideration many people may say: "We are not concerned as to the effect on the railways; they can look out for themselves." But this is a short-sighted view, because what affects the railways affects every producer, every taxpayer, every citizen in this country.

Let us briefly examine this new development, not from the standpoint of the railways, or of the passenger buses and freight trucks, but from the standpoint of the farmer-producer, the merchant, the farmer of labor, and the individual taxpayer.

The people of Canada have invested hundreds of millions of dollars in railways. They are paying heavy taxes today because of land grants, tax exemptions, cash subsidies, bonuses, guarantees of bonds and the payment of deficits in years past, in order to provide these essential services. Today the people of Canada are the owners outright of more than one-half the railway mileage in Canada, while thousands of Canadians, as individuals, are financially interested in the second great railway system of this Dominion. It is in the interests of every citizen, therefore, that our railways be operated efficiently, financially as in all other respects.

During recent years the taxpayers of Canada, Federally, Provincially, and Municipally, have been investing tens of millions of dollars annually in the provision of good roads. Thousands of miles of all-weather highway have been built, and the constant demand is for still more and better highways. The tax burden is mounting higher and higher as a result. The advent of the automobile forced this never-developed. It could not be prevented; it is not to be regretted; it is progress.

But these improved highways have created a new situation, namely, the development of motor transportation services over these highways for both passengers and freight haulage. The outcome is that the competition which the privately owned and operated automobile offered to the railway passenger service, has been intensified, with the result that railway freight earnings, the most profitable department in railway operation, are suffering.

Briefly stated, that's the situation. Having faced ourselves to create the railways, we have now faced ourselves to create the motor shipping and road services are made possible to cripple the institutions in which we are so heavily interested, financially and otherwise.

What does this mean, say to the farmer-producer of Western Canada? Everywhere the demand is being voiced that railway freight rates should be reduced, that in view of the present low price of all farm products, existing freight charges in these products to the markets of the world are too high, and altogether out of proportion to the price of the commodities transported. Granting this to be true, the fact remains that it costs the railways just as much to move a bushel of 56 cent wheat as it does to move a bushel of $1.50 or $2.00 wheat.

So far as the farmer-producer is concerned he must rely upon the rail ways to transport his product. He may move it from his farm to the nearby elevator in a truck, but he cannot so transport it to the head of the lakes port or to the seacoast. The railways must do that. Neither can he depend upon motor truck services to bring to him all the heavy machinery and equipment from far distant points; the railways must do that, too.

Therefore, the question for the farmer-producer and for the merchant who depends upon the success of farming for his livelihood, to face and answer is: How can freight rates be reduced, how in fact can they be maintained even at present figures if the railways lose the revenues accruing to them from short hauls and the lighter classes of freight?

This article, and a second one to follow, is not written as an apology for, nor as propaganda in behalf of the railways, but solely in order to direct attention to some factors now entering into the transportation problems of this present age. Editor.

Visions Of Establishment Of An Iron Smelting Industry Is Seen For Ontario Province

Visions of the establishment some time in the future of a huge iron smelting industry in the district of James Bay were stimulated by the announcement that the government has withdrawn the unpatented portions of Belcher Islands, in Hudson Bay, from public exploitation pending a thorough investigation into the character and extent of the hematite deposits there.

Coupled with this, in the minds of those who foresee further extensive developments for Northern Ontario, was the fact that examinations of a most elaborate nature are at present being made on the suitability for all purposes of the lignite deposits in the Abitibi region.

Coal and iron being complementary the one to the other in establishing the basis of all manufacturing industry, the discovery and development of the two in such close proximity as Belcher Islands are to Abitibi have encouraged the hope that Canada's independence of external sources for the nation's supply of iron ore may eventually become considerably more than a pious wish.

The prospect of the ore being transported in barges from the islands of Hudson Bay to the ocean port which the Ontario government proposes to found at the debouchment of the Moose River is one which has captivated the imagination of those most closely connected with the operations.

Expanding the theme, the possibility was envisaged of such a development furnishing an additional outlet for the coal of both Nova Scotia and Alberta. In the former case the coal could be water-borne all the way from Sydney, N.S., up the coast of Labrador, through the well-charted Hudson Straits and down to James Bay. In the latter case a comparatively short haul from the Alberta colonies to Churchill would bring the western product to tidewater.

The government's examination of the Belcher Islands deposits will be conducted under the supervision of the Department of Mines.

Farm Organization

Writer Maintains Operating Costs Can Be Reduced and Production Stimulated

The history of agriculture demonstrates that operating costs can be reduced, production per worker stimulated, standards of living raised and national wealth increased by the adoption of farm organization to improvements in equipment, was the conclusion reached by Andrew Stewart of Manitoba Agricultural College who won the Royal Empire of Canada economics fellowship competition for 1930-31.

The prize was worth $1,000. Second place was given to "Recent developments in wholesale and retail distribution," by George D. Thomson, of University of Toronto, and third place to "A Study of Empire Trade," by G. M. Bountress, of McGill University. Mr. Stewart's prize-winning paper was entitled "The economy of machine production in agriculture."

Says Manufacturers Should Take Care Of Raw Products From Western Canada Farms

Direct Result Of Grading

London Advances Price Of Canadian Cheese Over New Zealand Product

No industry is favored with more inspection, inspection, guidance and encouragement from government officials and self-appointed crusaders than is the enterprise we call dairying. But there is a good motive behind all this paternalism, and happily it is leaving fruit. From Dr. J. A. Rutledge, Dairy Commissioner for Canada, comes this terse statement: "According to the 'London Grocer' the average London quotation for Canadian cheese for this calendar year, 1930, exceeded the London quotation for New Zealand cheese by 2.00 cents per pound."

When we add 5 cents per pound to the cheese manufactured in Canada (for that is what it really means) we begin to appreciate what cheese grading, factory improvement, payment by test, and general picking mean to the dairymen of this country. And when we recall that at one time New Zealand cheese was threatening the prestige of the Canadian product on the British market we can, quite properly, give ourselves a pat on the back. Societies In Saskatchewan Planning To Organize A Fall Circuit

Spangdale, Melville, Watrous, Yorkton and Canora societies have been in correspondence on this project and it is believed that the Melfort and Prince Albert horticulturists may also join. A bulletin prepared by plant experts for the Horticultural Societies Association, listing the plants recommended for cultivation in Saskatchewan will be ready in a few days at the extension department of the University.

Cooperation by Eastern manufacturers with Western farmers in the means by which Western Canada will return to prosperity, Senator W. A. Buchanan, of Lethbridge, Alberta, told members of the Toronto Board of Trade at a recent gathering.

Wheat can only be partially displaced in the west by diversified farming, Senator Buchanan said, but a reduction in wheat acreage is possible through the introduction of more stock raising and the establishment of sugar beet factories, vegetable canneries, cheese factories, milk condenseries and an extension in the sheep raising industry. What was needed with this diversified agriculture was the industries to take care of the raw products.

"Here's where the co-operation of the eastern manufacturer was required," he said. Also the western sheep raisers should be encouraged in the production of more Canadian wool. While Canada could never compete with such wool industries as that of Australia, there was the basis of great wool producing areas in western Canada, the senator said.

Commenting on present conditions in the west, Senator Buchanan said the country was "groggry" in spots, but there was plenty of hope and confidence in evidence.

He belittled talk of recession, which, he said, was found only in districts where agitators "got a chance to air their views." He claimed no one treated recession seriously.

What many farmers needed to do was to live on reserves built up through good years rather than take too many chances on "next year." They should also seek to live off the farm rather than buy canned vegetables, meats and milk.

Production of only the superior class of all products should be urged upon the farmers, he said.

The coal industry was in the worst situation in history. Unless some other utilization could be found for coal he could hold little hope for the industry in the future.

One industry which had not ceased during the depression, he said, was the production of oil. New fields were being found all the time and in the near future importation of such products into Canada should be eliminated.

Cause Of Gastric Ulcer

Harvard University Professor Announces New Theory

Climaxed seventeen years of research work, Dr. Harvey Cushing, of Harvard University, foremost authority on the surgery of the central nervous system, has announced his theory regarding the cause of gastric ulcer, a problem that has baffled the medical world since 1784.

The ulcer is caused by disturbances in the diencephalon, that part of the brain which is the seat of the primitive emotions, and which governs most of the automatic actions of the body, he stated.

Dr. Cushing spoke in Convention Hall before the faculty of medicine of the University of Toronto, which celebrated the 10th anniversary of the birth of Lud. Lister, eminent surgeon.

His explanation of the cause of the ulcer is the first coherent and completely tenable answer to the problem that has yet been proposed. Toronto medical authorities who attended the lecture said.

The gastric ulcer is one of the most common maladies of the present day, and is said to be increasing. It is usually found in those who are overworked or under great emotional stress.

COST OF ALBERTA HIGHWAYS MOUNTS

According to the annual report of the Department of Public Works presented by the Minister to the present session of the Alberta Legislature, the annual cost of maintaining the highways of the Province climbed in a single year from $1,136,345 to $2,155,836, an increase of $1,019,490.

Expenditures in road construction showed little variation, the increase being from $1,027,608 to $1,652,044.

The above figures are for the season ending March 31st, 1930. And it is anticipated figures for the 1930-31 season, when available, will show an increase at least equivalent to that of the previous season.

HAIL AS A CROP MENACE

(Experimental Farms Note)

The destruction caused by hail in Canada affects but a small proportion of the total crop acreage. To the individual farmer, however, a hailstorm is a very serious matter as his whole crop may be destroyed.

On the average about 47 hailstorms occur each year in both Saskatchewan and Alberta. Fortunately most of these are localized to narrow strips of country. Two of the worst storms reported in Alberta occurred on the same day in 1928. The crop damage in each case amounted to practically 100 per cent over an area 200 miles long and, in many places, six miles wide.

It is not uncommon to learn that hailstones the size of hens' eggs fell in a particular district. This is by no means an exaggeration as much larger ones have been observed. The size of the stones is supposed to be determined by wind action during the storm. The moisture condenses out of the clouds and falls as rain. Before this reaches the ground the drops are caught by a very strong updraft of air, which carries the raindrops to higher and colder levels. At this time the force of the air diminishes and the frozen drops fall only to be caught again and whirled aloft. In the process more moisture is carried up and frozen so that at each trip the drop grows steadily larger and heavier until it finally falls to the ground. This explanation is based upon the fact that a cross-section of a typical hailstone shows a formation consisting of a number of concentric layers.

It is of course natural that attempts have been made to break up approaching storms. Various paraphernalia

To the Holders of WAR LOAN AND VICTORY BONDS

A Statement by the Minister of Finance

IN THE dark days of the War, Canadians loaned to the Government of the Dominion many hundred millions of dollars to enable the operations of the Allies to be carried to a successful conclusion.

When Canadians loaned their money to the Government, they received bonds which were promises to repay them the sum loaned with interest at the rate of 5% or 5½% per annum. On the 1st of October next, $53,000,000 of these bonds become due; on the 1st of November, 1932, the maturity will be $73,000,000; on the 1st of November, 1933, $446,000,000; and, in 1934, $511,000,000 must be provided for.

It would not be prudent, either in the interest of the security holders or the country itself, to wait until these loans become due before providing for their payment or conversion. Action must be taken well in advance of the due dates to protect the credit of the country. The Government believes this an opportune time to afford Canadians the opportunity to exchange the bonds, which they own maturing in the next few years, for new bonds of the Dominion of Canada carrying interest at the rate of 4½% per annum, which is a very attractive return. Prior to the maturity date of the present bonds, those who accept this offer will, of course, continue to be paid interest at the rate as provided by the bonds they exchange.

Canadians who have always shown confidence in their country are earnestly invited to exchange the bonds they now own for bonds of the new issue. By so doing, they will render less difficult the task of providing for the future finances of the country, will enhance its credit and will greatly assist the Government in the present period of worldwide readjustments.

No money will be asked for and no new bonds will be sold at this time. It is proposed to limit the present conversion to $250,000,000, but the Government has the right at its discretion to increase the amount if Canadians indicate a general desire to continue their investments in the securities of their Dominion. The subscription books will close on the 23rd of May.

I earnestly seek the active support of my fellow Canadians in making this conversion, which is one of the largest financial operations our country has undertaken in recent years, creditable alike to Canada and its citizens.

Minister of Finance.

DIDSBURY v. INNISFAIR

The Didsbury High School baseball and basketball teams played their regular games with Innisfair here on Friday last.

The girls redeemed themselves from the trouncing Bowden gave them last week and beat the Innisfair girls by a score of 17-6. Our girls had the best of the play all through the game and with a little more practice will do our school great credit.

The boys were not so sure of victory, for in the fifth inning the score was 5-11 in favor of the visitors. In the sixth and seventh innings the local boys went on a batting spree and drove the horse-hiders all over the lot.

Charlie Geiger, in the box, pitched a wonderful game after he had warmed up and during the latter half held Innisfair down in a very creditable manner.

The final score is still in doubt, for according to the Innisfair score-keeper it was 11-13 in favor of Didsbury and the Didsbury score-keeper turned in 12-13 in favor of Innisfair.

Soil-drifting Discussed By Agricultural Board

The Alberta Agricultural Board which is made up of representatives of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, the University of Alberta, the C.N.R. and C.P.R., the Pools, U.F.A., Seed Growers and Livestock Growers of the Province, met in Edmonton, Thursday, April 30th and among other things discussed the question of soil-drifting. As a result of the discussion, the following recommendations are being published in connection with this very serious problem. The Alberta Board of Agriculture approves of the following recommendations in connection with soil-drifting:

1. That as long as the present period of drought and high winds generally prevails, the seeding of land subject to drifting be delayed as far as possible.
2. That farmers should avoid unnecessary field cultivation.
3. That seeding at right-angles to prevailing winds is desirable. Plowing of occasional furrows after seeding across the fields at right-angles to prevailing winds is recommended.
4. Drifting does its most serious damage on summer-fallows. Prevent recurrence of damage in 1932 and following years by adopting this season "small-field" or "strip-farming" methods. Avoid having a large acreage of summerfallow in one field.

"What's Happened to The Light?"

We never miss the winter until the well runs dry.
A faithful lamp, doing duty for many months in cellar or hallway, goes up the ghost. You flip the switch and when nothing results, involuntarily exclaim, "What's happened to the light?"
Suppose, however, that the trouble goes farther than the lamp—that a flood wipes out the power station, or a severe storm blows down the wires.
What then?

Is industry crippled for lack of electrical service? Are the doors of mercantile establishments locked? Are streets left in darkness? NO!
Interconnection, the linking of one system with another, is for just such emergencies. Immediately power is again available. Interconnection means the protection of service against interruption.
It is just like having two or even three wells to draw from.

The Calgary Power Company representative in your territory can procure for you any item of electrical equipment. He will tell you about the attractive terms upon which you can purchase many electrical appliances—with a small cash payment and the balance on your monthly light bills.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always a reason. Sometimes it's the recipe on the wrapper, mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—often as there is need in cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance. It is invaluable. A cooled tonic-cure for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

"I don't know what a ransum is, Mr. Maxwell, and you don't need to tell me anything about Nick. Most ways he's good as gold, but he always did like a change now and then, and when a cold-blooded vamp like Mr. Halliday gets hold of him, there's no knowing what'll happen. Why at the movies last Saturday I see a young feller with a wife and baby just led round by the nose by a woman no wickered than her. And he set a lot of store by his wife too. The best o' men is children in the hands of us women, you can bank on that. Of course I ain't meanin' anything personal about Mr. Maxwell."

Mary smiled. She tried to switch her off onto another subject by mentioning little Martha, but, as Gay once told Nick, no one could stop Julie when she got started. In fact, Mary's choice of subject was unfortunate, for Julie said:

"That's another thing. I suppose Nick was right to be polite, for he said something about how good Mr. Halliday was to do so much for us—Julie paused, and jerked her elbow toward the little girl who had slipped from Mary's lap and was amusing herself with a picture book. Julie lowered her voice. "Now I hope to die, Mrs. Maxwell, if this ain't the truth! If Mr. Halliday had her way that child would go to the poor farm. I got ears in my head as well as eyes, and you I don't hear ain't worth hearin'!" but she said to Nick, so I sweet soundin' it would be made honey taste like vinegar! I took upon it as a privilege, Mr. Hastings—this chance to do something for a little child."

John Maxwell once said that Julie Nipps was a loss to the stage. His wife thought of it now, as her caller raised innocently trusting eyes to an imaginary Nick. Then she straightened up and her lips tightened as she added: "And there sat Nick, takin' it all in as innocent as a baby takes its bottle which like as not the wicked nunsaid's poisoned. Nick's awful trustin'. His uncle's the only ugly thing he ever run up against. I guess, and he don't know women. I don't remember what he answered, but he begun again and said somethin' kind o' high soundin' about the child makin' up to her for other disappointments. It sounded kind o' like a knock-out punch at Mr. Halliday."

"Disappointments! That woman never had no worse disappointment than gettin' stuck with a coat that didn't match her eyes!"

"Then she begun to sing. It sounded awful pretty. I moved the curtain a nate and peeked out. Nick was sittin' there on the steps below her looking for all the world like he'd been handed a first class ticket to Paradise. Nick's real handsome, and he looked handsome's ever just then. I couldn't blame Mrs. Halliday for fallin' for him. Then I thought of Gay, and I had half a mind to throw one o' them pumps at him to break the spell. But I didn't need to. Just that minute little Nick set up an awful howl. It was like things happen in the movies. Mrs. Maxwell—the child ruinin' the father to his stern duty. Nick rose all right. He sprinted through that hole in the hedge like he'd been fired out of a shot gun; and now I'll tell you somethin' real interestin'! Mr. Halliday looked after him for a minute, and then she sort o' shook her fist at Gay's nursery window where Nick switched on a light, and when she do you think she said 'Darn!' or my name ain't Julia Amanda Nipps! Now what do you think of that?"

Mary Maxwell smothered an hysterical laugh.

"Yet I was awfully ashamed," she said that evening, when relating the scene to John. "It was terrible of me to listen to all that gossip; but you know Julie. It's like trying to dam a flood to shut her off. And besides, I was worried about Nick. All our old fears for him came back when she began her story."

"You must remember," replied John Maxwell quietly, "that in the days before the movies our friend Julie would have been a devotee of the diene novel. She craves excitement, and invents it where none exists. She can smell a scandal long before it's born, but if she took Nick to task for hobnobbing with Mrs. Halliday, I think she'd meet her match."

He chuckled, but Mary said soberly: "Just the same, Johnny, I think Mrs. Halliday is a dangerous woman. I'm glad she's going back to Boston."

Mary Maxwell was not the only one who felt a sense of relief on the day that Angela Halliday and her numerous trunks, departed from Bakersville. Her husband, who was to stay a day or two longer in order to perfect certain plans for little Martha, was distinctly glad of her absence, a feeling that was shared in good measure by Gay, who watched the departure from her front window, and as the car drove off, surprised her small son with an ancient bug.

"It'll seem strange not to see Mrs. Halliday fussing around the garden," said Nick that night at supper. "I wonder that anyone so fond of growing things can endure a winter in the city. I thought she looked tired when she left."

"When she left?"

"I mean at the station. I ran down to see her off. In fact, she suggested it herself. She thought Halliday wouldn't have time to go with her, and there were a lot of trunks to check. She's rather used to being waited on, you know."

Had Nick been looking at his wife he would have noticed an unfamiliar expression in her eyes.

"Of course, if one is willing to beg for help one usually gets it," she responded, "but there are some who would rather check our own trunks than ask a man to leave his business to do it for us."

"But I didn't leave my business," said Nick. "I wasn't coming home this noon anyway, you know, and I had lunch later in order to take in her train. However, as far as the trunks were concerned, I needn't have gone. Halliday saw to them herself."

"While his wife was bidding you a lingering farewell? It would have taken some time to check those trunks. They filled a whole express wagon. How can one woman have such a wardrobe?"

Nick threw an amused glance across the table.

"What's the matter, old girl? Upset about anything? Your remarks sound just the least bit feline."

"Yes, I am upset," Gay confessed honestly, her color rising. "I don't think Mrs. Halliday should have asked you to see her off, nor do I think you should have gone. If she were a different woman I wouldn't care; but she's the sort people notice and speak about. Most of our friends here, you were out all night with her the time you came down with pneumonia—and you know how Bakersville can gossip. I don't care for their gossip, but if we're to live here—"

"Why, my dear girl," Nick interrupted, "what do you mean? I never thought—"

"You don't think enough, Nick. That's the trouble. Because you love me you can't imagine that anyone could misinterpret your actions. But they do. Why even Julie—"

"Julie Nipps is a confirmed scandal monger!" Nick was angry. "I'm ashamed that any wife should listen to anything she says. I believe it's she who's responsible for your unwarranted attitude toward Mrs. Halliday. The woman feels it, for she said last night she wished you'd let her get nearer to you."

Gay lowered her eyes.

"I'm sorry you're ashamed of me," she said cooly, and at her voice Nick's goal-horn, never long absent, returned. He rose and went around the table, sat down on the arm of her chair.

"Oh, come on. Let's not get ruffled over a thing like this. Of course I'm not ashamed of you. That was just temper. You're all I have to be proud of, Gay—you and the kiddies. If I'd known you'd mind my going to the station I wouldn't have gone, of course. Personally I don't care what people say; but if you do, I'll be more careful. Here, kiss me. I believe we almost quarrelled. It's ridiculous. Don't you know that there's only one girl in the world for me?"

He sang the last words, and Gay had to smile, even though the tears were not far off. It was seldom that they came even as near as this to having words, and such things hurt her. Nick would forget, but Gay woman-like, would feel the scars for a long time. She winked back the tears, but the eyes she lifted were very bright, and Nick understood. He put an arm about her, and said, kissing her gently: "There's that better. Not mad, are you?"

To his surprise she didn't smile, but answered quickly, as if to clear the table.

"Not mad," she answered. "Just—just a wee bit frightened—that's all." "Frightened? At what?"

His tone was fraught with astonishment; but Gay, managing herself that was an excellent imitation of a laugh, refused an answer.

When Food SOURS

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless liquid; pleasant, efficient and harmless.

But it kills excess acids. It's remained the standard with physicians for more than 50 years.

It is the quick method. It causes almost instantly if it is the proper method. You will never feel another when you know.

Increased tourist traffic to Canada from the United States is shadowed by reports from American Pacific passenger agents in the U. S., which show a much larger number of enquiries from would-be travellers than in former years. J. H. Foster, passenger traffic manager of the railway, stated recently in an interview at Saint John.

Canada said a recent but not goodbye to their majestic fishing and Queen of Bait at the border station of Point Stupart, where whither they had travelled by Canadian Pacific on their journey to New York. They were passengers by the Empress of Britain on that ship's record-breaking passage from Yokohama to Vancouver.
